IS GOING AWAY ON A VACATION

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 3 .- "Very useful" and Important Indeed," was the comment which president-elect Woodrow Wilson made themy on the array of editorials, statements and declarations from prominent persons being published in various newspapers advocating or opposing an extra session of congress to revise the tariff.

"Are you going to take all these clippings with you on your vacation" he was asked.

"Ob, no," replied the governor. "I've read them already. The newspapers certainly are helping me in my listening policy."

The attention of the president-elect was called to an argument in an editorial that insemuch as he had not received a majority of the popular vote and that since both the Republican and Progressive parties favored a policy of protection, therefore, the country had voted against tariff revision.

"That's queer receiving," remarked Mr. Wilson. "They overlook the fact that many state legislatures went Democratic, which means Democratic senators, and likewise that there were a great number of Democratic congressmen elected."

Mr. Wilson will so away next week on a vacation of three or four weeks, during which time be will be out of reach of political callers.

The president-elect took a five-mile walk yesterday around the Princeton hattlefield of revolutionary days.

He stopped for a few minutes to talk with Mrs. Anna Rickets, 85 years old, his next door neighbor. Among the thefrems that came yesterday was one from Eugene Chaffa, the Prohibition candidate for the presidency. He wired his congratulations and added, "I move to make it unanimous."

Not all of the Roosevelt electors, however, may have won. The name of lientenant governor Albert J. Wallace, which headed his electoral ticket, was acratched by many voters, presumably because of his course in commuting the death sentences of murderers while acting rovernor.

TURKISH TROOPS GUARD EMBASSIES

Paris, France, Nov. 9 .- Serious disrders are reported to have broken out in Constantinople where Kurd soldiers are killing Christians in the Galata guarded by detachments of Turkish troops who are still obedient to discipline.

Ghazl Ahmet Muktar Pasha, the veteran victor of Kars in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877 and a former grand visier, explained the Turkish defeats. The young Turks have ruined all our army. Formerly part of the officers came from the ranks and the remainder from the military schools. The young Turks did not like that system. They began by pensioning or finding other situations for the men who had risen from the ranks and replacing them by youngsters from the military academy. During three years about 1860 joined in this way, but all of them were too it may and inextremeed.

"Our battalions of infantry, which are soo strong, had only seven officers experienced at the outbreak of the war. What could you expect our soldiers to do without officers and without food, for we have no commissary department. They could do only one thing. They fled."

"Neither I nor the sultan will ever abandon Constantinople. My sovereign will await death in his palace: I in my office." Thus Klamil Pasha, grand vizier of Turkey, has addressed the ambassadors of the powers.

Kiamil Pasha Informed the ambassadors in Constantinople that he would maintain order there until the end, according to a dispatch to the Matin today. If, however, the Turkish capital should be occupied by the Invadera, the grand vizier declares that he could not be answerable for what the exasperation of the population might lead to Anything that might happen then would be on the conscience of Europe, he said.

Details of the battle of Yenidje show that 30,000 Turkish troops were engaged. Fighting lasted throughout the mcraing and ended in favor of the Greeks, two divisions of whom attacked the Turks in the rear and gave decisive turn to the battle.

The capitulation of the Turkish fortress of Saloniki, as well as fort Karaburum, was signed last night, according to an official dispatch. Twenty-five thousand Turkish troops surrendered.

But to get it you must make up your mind that you want wealth, that you want it above everything else in the world.
